NFL fans for the apathy you have towards the Chiefs. I used to enjoy your TV shows when I was a kid and now you're just ruining it for me. I don't know about you, but I love it when the KC Chiefs win. It makes me feel connected to the team and the city and you're ruining that for me. Now if you'll excuse me, I'm going to go watch the Texans win the Super Bowl. You don't have to actually watch the game, just know it is happening. But I'm in a unique situation where I have the game on my DVR, but

I'm in a different house from my family and have no internet. So I actually have to watch the game for them to know what's going on. You also don't have to actually watch the game, just know it is happening. But I'm in a unique situation where I have the game on my DVR, but I'm in a different house from my family and have no internet. So I actually have to watch the game for them to know what's going on. I have no problem watching it all, I just miss what would be a part of the fun of it, but it is a fun show to watch anyways, thanks. I'm not an atheist fan, but I don't think it's the players' fault that the majority of fans don't watch the games. The majority of fans don't have cable, so they aren't even allowed to follow the Chiefs on the radio. If the majority of fans aren't watching the games, why should the players make an effort to make it watchable? I don't get it...the Chiefs used to be good, and fans seemed to like them more, and they are on a down turn, but they can't blame that on the NFL.

The players do deserve some of the blame, though. 82157476af
